

How does a career at Sonos sound?

At Sonos we're hiring our next Hardware Lab Technician to work side-by-side with engineers in developing some of the highest quality, best sounding, and most advanced audio products on the market. This individual provides hands-on technical support, solves technical problems, runs a variety of tests, and helps maintain the lab equipment and supplies, all the while continuing to advance their knowledge and skills in the lab.

If you love music and enjoy solving problems while partnering with engineers and being part of the team that beta tests our new cutting-edge products before they launch, we'd like to talk to you!

Scan the QR code with your smartphone camera to apply today!

SONOS